Wild Jordan

Wild Jordan's revenues contribute to the sustainability of RSCN's protected areas and supports the socio economic development of local communities.

Wild Jordan is registered trademark for The Royal Society for the Conservation of Nature.

Wild Jordan is a registered trademark of The Royal Society for the Conservation of Nature. Wild Jordan's revenue contributes to the sustainability of RSCN's protected areas and supports the socio economic development of local communities.

Under its socioeconomic development program, RSCN dedicated itself to creating nature-based businesses that improve the livelihoods of local communities living in and around Jordan's nature reserves by reducing their reliance on natural resources.

Using a people-centered approach to protecting nature, RSCN has developed business ventures using the natural assets of protected areas to create sustainable economic and social benefits for local communities.

Thriving eco-tourism and handicraft enterprises have been established, creating jobs for hundreds of people. RSCN's ventures are making conservation important to the lives of local communities by providing alternatives to hunting and overgrazing, and other threats to Jordan's wildlife habitats.

Among these nature-inspired businesses operated by Wild Jordan are over a dozen handicraft workshops that create distinctive handmade products such as silver jewelry, olive oil soap, jams, embroidery, ceramics, herbal teas, hand-painted ostrich eggs, goat leather products and more. The products are sold at RSCN's Nature Shops and contribute to enhancing the livelihoods of over 60 local women.
